FIFTY ADDITIONS TO CHURCH IN GREAT REVIVAL

Special Services Will Be Continued at Christian Church Through Tuesday Evening—Successes Marked.

Just as there are outstanding periods in the life of the individual, or turning points in the industrial or civic life of a city or community, so too there are certain periods in the life of a church which stand out prominently and mark a new era in spiritual growth and influence. Positive results in any field of human endeavor are only attainable through concentrated effort and an unyielding devotion to governing principles. The church of the living God should be a beacon light in the community and should stand for only such principles as insure the highest standards of Christian citizenship. That these very desirable conditions have been met in the evangelistic services at the Christian church this past three weeks the large crowds in attendance at about all the services and the very happy results attained bear the best possible testimony.

Not in many years past if at all has this church been so thoroughly aroused or such a fine spirit of good fellowship and devotion to duty been evidenced. All other churches in the city have been represented in the audiences and the hearty cooperation of their various pastors has been a strong factor in making this a most successful meeting from every standpoint. The preaching has been of the highest character and its aim at all times has been to reach the hearts of men and women through an appeal to their reason and to those intellectual and moral forces inherent in humanity. The response has been most encouraging, about fifty people having united with the church with the prospect of others yet to come. Large audiences were out Sunday morning and evening services and it has been thought well to continue through Monday and Tuesday evening as the interest aroused seems to justify this conclusion.

A reception will be given to the new members immediately following the sermon Tuesday night and all friends and members of the church are most cordially invited to be present and help to make this a great event in this church's history. Fine singing under Brother L. A. Britton's splendid leadership is a strong factor

BRECKINRIDGE BOOSTS MAYSVILLE BOYS BAND

Famous Journalist Says Our Band Is the Best of Them all in Letter.

Col. J. B. Russell has just received this letter from Robt. J. Breckinridge, Lexington, editor and author, and coming from such a man it is considered quite a compliment:

"Dear Mr. Russell: I would rather see the Boys' Band of Maysville here than any other organization in the country not excepting Sousa.

"I honestly believe that the people of this section would derive more genuine enjoyment from your band than any other and I will take the greatest pleasure in doing anything possible in my power to aid you in every way.

"I will not only see Mr. Walker personally but if you have any other people that you can suggest, I will use what influence I have to get the boys here.

"I am in some doubt whether I will ever hear Gabriel blow his golden trumpet but if I hear it and the notes are as sweet as the ones that your boy blows I sure will hop to Heaven in proper time. Yours sincerely, "ROBT. J. BRECKINRIDGE."

MILK MEN OF WEST THE SUCCESSFUL ONES.

In a letter to a local concern on business Mr. S. J. Sparks, formerly of Lewis county, says: "Weather on the Pacific Coast is fine now. Oregon growers sold over a million pounds of prunes last week. Price was stated very low. Wool won't sell. Mills shut down and lumber business is paralyzed. The dairy men are the only ones who hold up their heads and smile. The man with cows or milk goats is the man of the hour in this section."

NOTICE K. OF P. All members of Limestone Lodge No. 36, K. of P., are called to assemble at the Castle Hall Tuesday, February 1, 1921, at 12:30 o'clock to attend the funeral of Sir Knight Chas. Rudy of Friendship Lodge, Newport, Ky.

GEORGE A. HELMER, C. C. W. A. MUNZING, K. of R. & S. Minerva Lyceum Course third attraction, February 2nd, Acollan Concert Company, will give you a pleasant evening. 31Jan31.

In the successful outcome and his excellent solos are inspiring features. Tonight and tomorrow night at 7:15. Everybody welcome.

25th ANNIVERSARY OF CONSECRATION IS CELEBRATED

Bishop Hurton Celebrated Quarter Century Anniversary of His Bishopric at Lexington Cathedral.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the consecration of the Right Reverend Lewis W. Hurton to the Episcopal Bishopric of the Diocese of Lexington and of the organization of the Diocese was celebrated Sunday.

The occasion was observed in all parishes throughout the diocese but especially in the churches which are located in the city of Lexington. There the Sunday services will be followed by celebrations and entertainments extending well into the week.

Among the prominent clergymen from out of the diocese who are at Lexington are the Right Reverend Charles E. Woodcock, Bishop of the diocese of Kentucky, and the Right Reverend Boyd Vincent, Bishop of the diocese of Southern Ohio.

Bishop Hurton, the first bishop of the diocese of Lexington, is a native of Ohio. He is the son of Rev. Lewis Burton, for forty-seven years pastor of Episcopal churches in Cleveland. He was an honor graduate of Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio, where he received the bachelor, master and doctor of divinity degrees. Mr. Hurton also holds the doctorate of divinity from the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., and the LL. D. from St. Johns College, Annapolis.

After serving his diocese at All Saints church, Cleveland, Bishop Hurton was for seven years associated with his father at All Saints and St. Marks churches, Cleveland. Later he moved to Richmond, Va., where he served for ten years as pastor of the historical "old mother church," St. Johns, where Patrick Henry made his speech of independence.

From St. Johns he came to St. Andrew's church, Louisville, where he remained until his elevation to the episcopate. The consecration services were held on January 30, 1896, in St. Andrew's church, Louisville, in the presence of seven of the episcopates among whom were the late Right Reverend T. V. Dudley, then Bishop of the Diocese of Kentucky, and the Right Reverend Boyd Vincent, who preached at the morning anniversary service held in Christ Church Cathedral Sunday.

Bishop Hurton removed to Lexington March 12, 1896. The following year the episcopal residence on West Sixth street was completed and he has made his home since as one of Kentucky's most prominent and esteemed citizens.

MR. CHAS. RUDY DEAD.

Mr. Charles Rudy, 51 years of age, died at the home of Mr. Marion Moore in West Second street, Sunday at 11:45 a. m. after a long illness. Mr. Rudy, although a native of Maysville, had long been a resident of Covington. He removed to Maysville a few months ago when he became critically ill.

He was a son of the late Byron Rudy and is survived by his wife, three children, Conrad, of Detroit, Charles, of Covington, and Mrs. Ida Burton, of Chicago, as well as one sister, Mrs. H. L. Walsh, of this city. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity and the Knights of Pythias. Funeral will be from the home of his sister in Front street Tuesday at 1 p. m. with services by Dr. John Barbour and burial will be in the Maysville cemetery. The funeral will be in charge of Limestone lodge Knights of Pythias.

SHOWS BENEFIT NETS GOOD SIZED SUM.

The benefit performance given by the Washington and Pastime theaters on Sunday afternoon for the European Relief were well patronized and a sum near $300 was realized and will be contributed to this most worthy cause. The concert of the band at the Washington theater was quite an attraction.

H. E. POGUE RESIGNS AS WATER CO. SECRETARY

N. Y. Fieldhouse Is Promoted to Office of General Manager and Will Have Complete Charge.

Mr. H. E. Pogue this morning resigned as Secretary-Treasurer of the Maysville Water Company his resignation to take effect at once. Mr. Pogue offered his resignation some time ago to take effect the first of the year but because of various business matters he remained in the office until this time.

It is understood that Mr. N. Y. Fieldhouse who has been in charge of the water company's local plant, will have complete charge of the company's local affairs, being promoted to the position of General Manager. The company will open a down-town office immediately in the State National Bank building where the business of the company will be transacted.

The successor of Mr. Pogue as secretary and treasurer of the company will be chosen at a meeting of the directors to be held within a short time and it is understood that more than likely an out-of-town man will be chosen to succeed him in this office.

VESPER SERVICE.

The attendance at the Presbyterian service yesterday afternoon was fine notwithstanding the bad weather. Rev. Mr. Davis preached a very vigorous and inspiring sermon on the victory of Gideon. He showed that it was due to the energy, spirit of union, courage and Divine approval of Gideon's men. A thousand Christians of Maysville might have heard this talk with profit. A trio founded on Handel's Largo was sung by Mrs. Peed, Mrs. Williams and Miss Florence Barbour. A great impression was also made by Mrs. Willard Williams in "The Plains of Peace," a solo which fitted admirably her exquisite voice.

The organ work of Miss Frances Barbour has been especially skillful in these services. It is very much enjoyed and complimented.

BACK FROM SUCCESSFUL HUNTING TRIP.

Governor W. H. Cox returned home Sunday afternoon from Florida where he has been for the past few weeks on a hunting trip on the reservation of the Jupiter Hunting Club. Mr. Cox reports this one of the most successful hunting trips the club has recently. All kinds of game was killed including six deer.

HAND MANAGER TO INTERVIEW FAIR OFFICERS.

Colonel J. Barbour Russell and Mr. A. L. Glascock went to Lexington this morning to hold a conference with officials of the Bluegrass Fair in regard to the Maysville Boys' Band furnishing music for the fair this year. The local band hopes to be able to land the contract.

NAMED GUARDIAN OF MISS OLGA OWENS.

In the Mason County Court Mr. W. W. Ball, Jr., was appointed guardian of Miss Olga Van Slyke Owens, sole heir to the late James Owens estate, and he qualified as such with E. T. Kirk and C. E. Galbreath as sureties on bond.

SUPERVISOR'S ERROR IN TOBACCO AVERAGE.

Supervisor William Mitchell, of the Maysville market, made quite an error in figuring the average for the local market last week and his first average announced was wrong. The correct average was $19.20.

NIGHT RIDER INQUIRY PROCEEDS IN BATH; WITNESSES HEARD

Continuation of Night Rider Inquiry Today—Several Tell of Recent Experience With "Riders."

Owingsville, Ky., Jan. 31. — Seven witnesses Saturday were examined before the court of inquiry convened here at the instance of Governor Morrow to seek the identity of night riders who rode through parts of Bath and Fleming counties a week ago Saturday.

Three other witnesses, one from Bath and two from Fleming county, are to be examined this week. The testimony is being taken by the court stenographer, and when completed it will be submitted in a report to the Governor.

Judge J. L. Atchison is presiding and the examination is being prosecuted by County Attorney Daniel W. Doggett and Commonwealth's Attorney W. C. Hamilton.

None of the witnesses examined Saturday was able to identify any of the band of night riders. The belief was expressed by several that the men came from Nicholas and Fleming counties, and that they did not appear in home territory. None of the horses was recognized, according to the witnesses.

T. S. Robertson, who owns one thousand acres in the Bethel neighborhood, was among witnesses examined. Of seven, he was the only one who was threatened, it developed. The other witnesses — Jacob Lloyd, Thomas Crouch, Lee Davis, Samuel McMeekin, Silas Burgess and another whose name was not made public, testified that the spokesman for the party of twenty was even polite. In every case, however, the admission to sell no more tobacco and to make no preparations for a crop this year or rent

FLEMING JURY TO TAKE UP NIGHT RIDING TODAY

Investigation of Fleming County Night Riding to Be Taken Up by Fleming County Grand Jury.

Flemingsburg, Ky., Jan. 31. — The grand jury of Fleming county which is now in session will hear witnesses today in regard to night riding which took place Saturday, January 22, in Bath and Fleming counties. It became known today. Subpoenas have been served on witnesses, among those called being farmers who were visited by the night riders, including some of the men who appeared Saturday before the court of inquiry being conducted in Owingsville.

Circuit Judge C. D. Newell, who is presiding over the court sessions, has not delivered special instructions to the grand jury, as they have not appeared to receive a charge since Governor Morrow requested that a special investigation be held, and as the grand jury already has taken up the matter.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS THIS EVENING.

The Maysville Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting at the High School building this evening, at 8:15 o'clock. There is much important business to consider at this meeting.

The Manchester basketball team defeated the M. H. S. Alumni team Saturday by a score of 60 to 14.

Their land for tobacco, was positive. They were also firm but "kindly". It was stated, when they directed two owners of trucks not to haul more tobacco to market for any patron.

Members of the court would not divulge what evidence was expected from the three remaining witnesses. The actual testimony will not be made public until it has been before Governor Morrow.

NEW EQUIPMENT IS ADDED TO NEW ELECTRIC PLANT

Maysville's Electric Plant Will Have Its Capacity More Than Doubled By New Unit Now Being Added.

Experts are at work this week connecting a new turbine electric generator at the plant of the Maysville Power Company in West Second street, which when completed will more than double the total capacity of the local plant and will guard the plant against all emergencies.

The new generator now being installed is of 1250 horsepower or one thousand kilowatt. This new unit has a capacity of 350 horsepower in excess of the unit which has been supplying Maysville with light and power since the building of the company's new plant. With the installation of this new unit the company is provided with two individual plants within one building, either of which carries the city's demand with a considerable surplus. These plants may be operated together or separately. Either one of the plants will furnish more than the present demand of Maysville and the company is installing the new plant primarily as a protection in emergencies and with its installation the old electric plant which the company has been holding for emergencies, may be dismantled.

The two units in the new plant now give to the local electric company 2350 horsepower or 1750 K. W., which is one of the most powerful plants in any city anything like the size of Maysville in the country.

All connections are expected to be made this week and there will be practically no interference with the public. It was necessary to shut down the Cotton Mills for certain connections made today.

PICKING ON PANAMA.

The little Republic of Panama has filed a protest with our State Department because of the action of United States officers in taking possession of a small tract of ground east of Colon on Las Minus Bay, ostensibly for defensive purposes at the entrance to the Panama Canal. The note protests against the "act of force" by which the United States took possession of the land, it being alleged that the proceedings were carried on in an undiplomatic manner and fears are expressed that a precedent which may be dangerous to Panama's national rights may have been established. If the protest of Panama is well founded this country will have witnessed one more instance of the government by men instead of by law which has been typical of the Wilson Administration.

In the Hay-Bunau Varilla Treaty (November 18, 1903), after Panama had made grant in perpetuity of a ten-mile-wide strip known as the Canal Zone, it was agreed that "The Republic of Panama further grants to the United States in perpetuity the use, occupation and control of any other lands and waters outside of the zone above described which may be necessary and convenient for the construction, maintenance, operation, sanitation and protection of the said Canal" and such rights, powers and authority are to be such as the United States "would possess and exercise if it were the sovereign of such sovereign rights, power or authority." But in the supplement to the territory within which said lands and waters are located to the entire exclusion of the exercise by the Republic of Panama of any treaty, known as the Root-Avancez treaty, signed January 9, 1909, it was "further agreed that all differences which may arise relating to the interpretation or application of the treaty" of November 18, 1903, "which it may not have been possible to settle by diplomacy, shall be referred, on the request of either party, to a Tribunal of Arbitration to be named by the contracting parties, whose judgment should be final on all matters submitted to it. Anding from Panama's protest it would appear that this method had not been adopted in Las Minus Bay matter but that something resembling a seizure and ouster had been committed, presumably with the consent, tacit or otherwise, of our State Department.

In this aspect of the case there can be no question but that Panama has been grievously wronged, and that the wrong should be righted forthwith. The United States should not be committed by the high-handed proceedings of bureaucratic underlings who apparently take pattern from the Wilson Administration in dealings with weaker states, such as Haiti, Santo Domingo, and others. The Senate should ask for the paper in the case and administer the proper rebuke, if called for.

Mr. Wilson's creed of "self-determination" has been more honored in the breach than in the observance whenever a Latin American nation was concerned. It is to be hoped that the misunderstanding created by this seizure of Panama territory will be the last of the many unfortunate occurrences in our relations with these states which have marked Mr. Wilson's Administration. The task which Mr. Harding will be called upon to meet in squaring us with those countries and in banishing their suspicion of our motives is hard enough without being added to during the closing days of the Democratic regime.

In her note of protest Panama takes exception to a decision of District Judge Hanna in which he refers to her as "a protectorate of the United States." In this case Panama's ground is hardly tenable. Article I of the Hay-Bunau Varilla Treaty specifically states: "The United States guarantees and will maintain the independence of the Republic of Panama," and we reserve certain right in Panama inconsistent with her possession of a full sovereign status. But possibly Panama has been moved to resent the implication of her status as a protectorate because of the way her territory is being handled. Otherwise she would welcome the protection which the treaty affords.

THE KANSAS INDUSTRIAL COURT DECISION.

There has been a great waste of good printer's ink over a recent decision of the Kansas Court of Industrial Relations.

The first information, which was a garbled report, bore the mistaken notion that the Court had decided that Kansas firms, in periods of low production or of shut-down, must carry on the payrolls the employees who were essential to the enterprise when it was at the peak of production.

The truth lies between the two extremes. The opinion of the court in full is available, and its language is worth quoting on this particular point. The language is as follows:

"In the reduction of the hours of operation therefore, the millers should be very careful and solicitous concerning the matter of labor. Skilled and faithful employees should be given such treatment as will enable them during the period of limited production to support themselves and their families. . . . We will say that thirty-five of the fifty men employed in a mill are skilled, faithful in the performance of their duties, and essential to the operation of the mill under normal conditions. Then it is up to the mill management to provide these thirty-five men with work, and keep them and their families going until such time as they again become essential in the operation of the mill and in the production of necessities."

This seems a sufficiently radical and startling doctrine, at first glance. Several considerations must be borne in mind, however. First, that the court had in view only a limited number of industries which the laws of Kansas have placed in the category of essential industries, and which owe a special duty to society, such as coal mining and flour milling, without which the people can neither be warmed nor fed.

In the second place the reference is to the skilled men who are themselves essential to the operation of the mine or mill, and without whom production could not be resumed.

But most important still it was not a decree of the court to be executed by the police power of the state, but the conviction of the court enunciating a social principle, in the nature of good advice, and in the interest of what its members conceive to be social justice.

The principle announced is that a workman who is skilled, faithful and essential to an industry, by his labor secures a vested right in his job, and in times when operations are reduced to a minimum, or when the plant closes down, should become a charge on the industry. Such a theory will create endless discussion, but is not likely to be widely adopted. Kansas must be credited with a remarkable ability to keep herself in the spot light.

BE FAIR.

The wives and mothers of industrial workers, a Brooklyn, N. Y., organization, in a communication to Congress declare that sixty per cent. of the members of Congress are overpaid. That is somewhat overdrawn. Only forty-three per cent. of the House of Representatives is Democratic.

WEDDING IN HIGH LIFE IS PICTURED IN TALK.

Louisville Minister Oliver Glimpse of Wedding Among High Life in Kentucky.

(Courier-Journal.)
 Champagne flowed abundantly. Confetti was ankle deep on the floor. The bridesmaids, with disheveled hair, laughed hysterically. The groomsmen's faces were flushed. The condition of both men and women could be described by no more charitable term than "drunk."

This picture of a wedding feast was painted yesterday afternoon by the Very Rev. Richard L. McCready, dean of Christ Church Cathedral, at the closing session of the annual council of the Episcopal Diocese of Kentucky at the Cathedral House.

It was in a private home in another town, Dean McCready said. As rector of a local Episcopal parish he had performed the marriage ceremony. The "disgusting" scenes that followed made Dean McCready resolve never to officiate at another wedding unless he obtained a pledge that drinking was not to enter into the festivities.

He endeavored to persuade the other rectors of the town to join him in his stand, but they refused, he said. As he related this experience he indicted the Episcopal clergy for failure to take a determined stand against drunkenness at weddings.

They officiate, he said, at a great many of the wedding in so-called "high life," and Dean McCready holds them "largely responsible" for the "frequent" misconduct at weddings in "high life" and for the low standards that are set.

Dean McCready's remarks were occasioned by the introduction of resolutions approving the address of the Rt. Rev. Charles E. Woodcock, bishop of the diocese, at the opening meeting of the council Wednesday night.

The bishop's address, which condemned "blue laws," demanded stricter marriage and divorce regulations and pointed to the need of more candidates for holy orders, will be read—or such parts of it as the bishop designates—to all the parishes of the diocese within thirty days, by order of the council.

The Rev. J. S. Douglas, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, dealt a blow in the discussion that followed at the "salacious slime" of many of the moving picture films "that are advertised as the best." The Rev. Rogers Peters, rector of St. Luke's Church, Anchorage, in resolutions that he offered in approval of the bishop's address, found among other things to condemn "the indecent characters of many of our modern dances."

The Rev. Mr. Peters' resolutions, after discussion, were discarded finally for a blanket resolution he offered approving the bishop's statements. It was decided that the original resolutions, which took up what were considered outstanding points of the address, might give rise to confusion.

PECCOY coughed for an hour after bedtime until Mother thought of Kemp's Balsam. A half teaspoonful quickly relieved the irritation, after which she soon went to sleep.

New York Letter

New York. — Statisticians are never cheerily inclined people; and for some reason they always seem much worse about the first of the year. Their reminiscences or their resolutions must disagree with them. But the kind who use their statistics on the future are particularly unpleasant. One of them has just announced with all the zest in the world that 800 of us in New York will be run down and killed by automobiles in this present year, and that several thousand more of us will be run down and lose arms or legs or be otherwise injured. He proves it by the unswerving rate of increase in such deaths and injuries from 1913 down, with 746 deaths in 1920. It makes one feel exactly as those of us who are pointing their fingers and saying, "YOU!" The only happy thing in his statistical table is that the traffic court made $404,147 in fines last year, out of those motorists who are trying to kill us.

The Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant would like to have elections in the Episcopal church conducted by Will Hays or by Chairman White of the Democrat National Committee. Then he thinks they wouldn't be so quiet. Dr. Grant, who has walked into the spotlight several times in the past by disagreeing with the church authorities on the propriety of having political speeches made in his pulpit, thinks dignity might sometimes be sacrificed in favor of publicity. "I would like to have some such man as I've mentioned to conduct the campaign," he said, speaking of the choosing of a new Bishop for the New York Diocese, "and then have the candidates come out publicly and declare the platforms on which they are running for office."

"The Night Watch," which the Shuberts have just brought over from London, comes pretty close to being that so-often-advertised thing, an "all-star" production. With Robert Warwick, Jeanne Eagles, Cyril Scott, Mae Lynn Arbuckle, Margaret Dale, Edmund Lowe and Max Erland, all in the cast, there is not much room left for minor actors. Everyone of them has played a lead part in some play of one of the past two seasons.

"Seems as if it ought to be enough to send a guy to the penitentiary without expecting him to show the policeman how to get him there," said Harry O'Neil, sentenced to three months to the East View prison for vagrancy, after he had spent three dark hours trying to guide the policeman in an automobile how to get to the institution. "Just like a copper," he said when the officer lost his way. "You take the next turn to the left, then the second to the right. I suppose I ought not to brag though. I helped build this place, so I OUGHT to know the roads to it."

Owen Johnson's engagement has just been announced. Engagements are not particularly unusual in the way of news, but there is a filip of interest in this announcement.

because it will mean the fourth time that matrimony shall have been undertaken by this novelist son of Robert Underwood Johnson, U. S. Ambassador to Italy. As he has always explained, any divorces in which has had a part have been perfectly reasonable, gentlemanly affairs.

A clever woman I know one time had to change the title of a serial she had sold a magazine because, the editor explained, one must not have "Surprise" in serials, although they are quite all right in published books. Her title was "The Friendly City" and it was about New York. "But New York is a friendly city," she protested. "Certainly," replied the editor, "but magazine readers don't expect it to be called that." I've often thought about how correct she was, and here is one instance of that friendliness. A woman living in a Park Avenue apartment, noticed three children in the window across the court, all in tears, and apparently with no one to comfort them. She got the number of their apartment and phoned them. There seemed to be no one to answer but the children and their explanation was confusing. So she went across to look into it. Then she learned the tragedy. Their mother was coming home from the hospital that day, and the cook had left, and the poor children had tried to get dinner and didn't know how. And WHAT could they do for poor mother? It happened to be the day off for the woman's own cook; she and her husband always dined out at such times; I know that she hadn't cooked a meal herself in ten years. But she then and there trotted out to market, carried everything home to be sure to have it there on time, and worked as she hadn't done in a decade to get the best dinner she could remember how to do. When everything was ready, the neglected silver polished, and the table radiant with roses, she rushed away, so that no stranger would interfere with the homecoming of the sick mother.

The three Chinese girls who have arrived in New York to show the International Silk Show crowds how the delicate alken fibres are reeled from the cocoons in their native lands, are the first Chinese working girls ever to have gone, as working girls, to a foreign land. "Mechanics and laborers have often been sent from China to study foreign methods," said Mr. Chiu, secretary of the Chinese delegation to the show, "but it marks a new epoch when China sends girls on an errand of any business or official sort like this." The girls are so dazed as yet to talk about their impressions, even in their own tongue. When an interpreter asks them what they think of America, they lead him to the elevator of the building and point upward with beaming smiles. From which I judge that for some reason they enjoy being whizzed up and down.

LUCY JEANNE PRICE.

HALF MILLION FOR MAYO TRAIL IN THE BALANCE.

Frankfort. — The county attorney of Lawrence county has entered a suit to which the state becomes a party to enjoin the fiscal court from expending $125,000 from bonds on the Mayo trail in that county, the right of a county to apply funds to a Federal road project being at issue. Should the attack prevail, half a million more raised by bonds for the Mayo trail would be lost.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

NOTES ON TARIFF REVISION

Farmers Pocketed 60% Loss.

Washington. — Based on December first prices paid to producers the value of all farm crops of this country for 1920 was slightly under $10,500,000,000, according to the Department of Agriculture, compared with $16,000,000,000 in 1919, and a little over $10,000,000,000 as the five-year average 1914-18 inclusive. This is proof positive that the agriculturists were the first to suffer from the slump in prices while the fact remains that the ultimate consumers profited little or nothing by lower living costs. During 1920 we imported something like $1,500,000,000 in foodstuffs, to say nothing of other products of the farm — probably an aggregate of not less than $2,000,000,000, compared with an estimate of something like $500,000,000 the year before the war. And two billion dollars of American money had a terrific purchasing power in 1920 on account of depreciation of foreign exchange. In bulk, the importations of 1920 would be considerably in excess of four times the 1913 importations. This situation suggests one of the main reasons why the American farmers are demanding emergency tariff legislation.

England Discriminates.

American thermos bottles are being kept out of England while those from Japan or Italy may come in, according to the testimony of John R. O'Brien, of the Flint Glass Workers' Union, before the Ways and Means Committee. This statement made the members of the committee sit up and take notice. Mr. O'Brien stated that the Icy-Hot Company, an American organization, had been unable to do business in England because of British regulations. It seems the concern had secured an order for 500,000 vacuum bottles to be marketed in London by a large drug company, but when application was made for a license to enter the merchandise it was refused. The British importing company was informed, however, that it could import similar merchandise from Japan or Italy, and O'Brien offered to furnish the committee with a letter signed by an officer of the London drug company to this effect. At the same time, the witness continued, the British have placed what amounts to an embargo on glass articles of American manufacture, while at the same time German goods are finding their way into the American market via London. Evidently Great Britain wants to pay some of her indebtedness to this country with German goods instead of with British gold, and there is a considerable un-American element among our people who favor this sort of business. The Ways and Means Committee does not.

Students Take a Hand.

The students of the George Washington University, located in Washington, D. C., are taking a deep interest in the question of tariff revision. An importer of glassware, recently testifying in opposition to the proposed rates on chemical glassware carried in the tariff bill now pending in the Senate, declared that those rates would make the cost to students on their glass requirements from $15 to $25 annually as an addition to their laboratory fees. The students of the G. W. U. promptly refuted this statement with figures showing that during 1919 and 1920 the cost of American-made chemical glassware was from $4 to $8. During these two years European competition was at a low ebb because of depressed conditions there. If the American manufacturers are permitted to retain an American share of the domestic market, university students need have no fear of exorbitant prices for their chemical glassware.

SEES IT NOW.

(Winchester Democrat.)

Now we can see through the whole matter since the Rev. Dr. Charles W. Welch, pastor of a Presbyterian church in Louisville, charged in a recent sermon that Louisville society girls attended social functions with "only four garments on, and two of them are stockings." Gay frolickers and ridiculous modes invented by ignorance and adopted by folly, certainly have something to do with moral conduct. This is an age remarkable for good reasoning and bad conduct, for sound rules and corrupt manners, when virtue dills our head, but vice our hearts, and where folks persuade us that they are sate of heaven, but seem in no greater hurry to get there than other folks.

Since the genial doctor failed to mention the other two garments the society girls of Louisville wore, they will continue wearing two stockings with a reckless abandon, and in that case, we advise the learned divine that Colton has very aptly said that "men are born with two eyes, but with one tongue, in order that they should see twice as much" as they tell.

SILK SHIRTS MADE LOOT OF CYNTHIANA BURGLARS.

Cynthiana. — Burglars who entered Goldberg's store untrifled themselves in new suits and carried away the entire stock of silk shirts, twelve dozen silk socks, all the high-grade silk ties and several watch chains.

ACCIDENT, ACCUSED CLAIMS.

Harrodsburg. — Owen Walker, negro pool room proprietor of Richmond, was released on $2,000 bond upon information that Itoy Robertson, young white man who was shot at a Sinker-town chicken main, will recover. Walker claims that he was in a tight with other parties, who took his revolver from him, and in efforts to grab it again it was discharged, the bullet striking Robertson, some distance away and not involved in the main fight.

DIVORCE; EXPECTED WEALTH.

Louisville. — In a petition for divorce Mrs. Edward Hatzel, 22, a bride of 19 days, says her 55-year-old husband induced her to marry him by representations that he was wealthy, and that these "false representations were the basis of her consent." She says that she has found he owns no real estate and has no money in bank. She secured an order to restrain him from annoying her.

Hidden Dangers

The modern Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde serial. Three big thrills in each episode. A man changes his entire being right before your very eyes. Each episode is more thrilling. The great mystery serial.

BEN TURPIN in a screamingly funny comedy. A riot of laughter. Also INTERNATIONAL NEWS. See Happy Blue Year. See what may happen if the reformers have their way.

ADMISSION 10 AND 15 CENTS.

TOMORROW — MARGARITA FISHER in "MOLLY OF THE FOLLIES." She was a ballyhoo dancer in a side show at Coney Island but wanted to break away from the carnival game. A fascinating photo-comedy based on the story written by Peter Clark Macfarlane and taken from a recent issue of the Red Book.
